

Senator Hatch Now Asks Government Finance Politics

New Mexican Senator Is Jubilant Over His Victory in Senate; Says Idea Not New

House Is Opposed

Stiff Fight Faces Measure in House Even Among Democrats

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Senator Hatch (D-N. M.), jubilant over Senate approval of his bill extending the present anti-politics law, recommended today that the federal government finance political campaigns.

Such an innovation in the American political system, Hatch said, probably would cost less than the present method of raising party funds by individual contributions.

"It's not a new thought," he added. "In a 1907 message to Congress, President Roosevelt advocated such legislation. Several states have considered the idea."

The fate of the Hatch anti-politics bill, meanwhile, passed over to the House, where action this session appeared highly doubtful. Passed 58 to 28 by the Senate yesterday, the measure would subject some 500,000 state employees paid partly from federal funds to the restrictions against political activity which now apply to federal workers.

Democratic Leader Barkley and Senator Hatch were pleased that a majority of Democratic senators voted for the bill. It had produced a sharp split in the party ranks, in contrast with united support it received from the Republicans. No Republican voted against it yesterday.

House Opposition
Signs of stiff House opposition, however, materialized rapidly. Representatives Celler (D-N. Y.) and Weaver (D-N. C.), two members of the judiciary committee, declared against it. Speaker Bankhead also announced his disapproval. Democratic Leader Rayburn has been non-committal.

Republican Leader Martin said it would be difficult to get the legislation to the floor this session because the rules committee might refuse to take the right-of-way even if the judiciary committee recommended its enactment. He emphasized that he favored the bill, however.

The restrictions which the bill would impose are numerous: State employees paid from federal funds would be debarred from all political activity, even the soliciting of campaign contributions. However, they may express their views on political issues.

May Be Candidates
They may be candidates for office, provided they take a leave of absence without pay during the campaign and resign immediately upon being nominated.

The civil service commission would be the arbiter on questions of prohibited political activity. For violation of the law, the commission could direct the withholding of federal funds equal to twice the annual salary of the offending worker.

The bill would hit party war chests by placing a $5,000 cap on the amount of money any individual might contribute in a year. Persons holding government contracts would be permitted to make no contributions.

The proposed maximum on contributions is expected to lessen House support for the bill. Democrats have argued that the Republican party would be the principal loser.

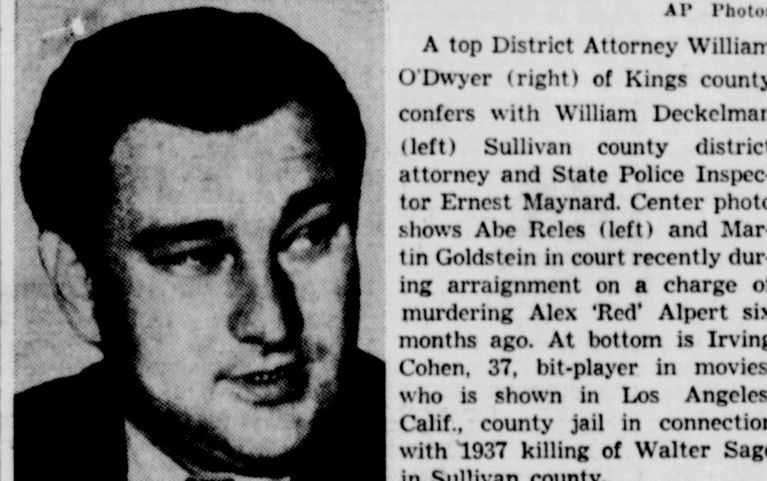

Produces Black Eyes
Tokyo, March 19 (AP)—A free-fall fist fight produced a crop of black eyes and bloody noses in the lower house of the Japanese diet today in a new quarrel over the Asama Maru case. A member of the Social Mass party questioned Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita about the incident in which a British warship removed 21 German passengers from the Japanese steamer Asama Maru January 21. Speaker Shoji Koyama ruled that the foreign minister need not reply.

The questioner rushed to the rostrum and demanded an answer, but Koyama still refused. A member of Mass members surrounded and began to manhandle the speaker, whose minceit (political party) colleagues sprang to his defense, and the melee ensued.

So many complaints are received during the summer months of broken glass in the streets that the public works board has added a motorcycle with a special side car body to the street equipment.

As soon as weather conditions permit the motorcycle will be placed on daily patrol duty, picking up broken glass and other refuse that falls in the streets after they have been swept clean by the street sweepers.

Changes Are Made In Store Plans

Requested Alterations Are Cause of Delayed Bids Opening by Architect

Opening of bids for construction of the A. & P.'s new store building, scheduled for Monday, was postponed because of certain alterations in the plans requested by the company. In order to give contractors opportunity to revise their bids to meet the new specifications, opening of bids was postponed to Friday.

Architect A. E. Milliken said that changes included, in addition to certain interior changes, provision for a rear entrance opening on the parking space which will be provided for customers of the store.

Court Fight to Block Bertrand Russell's Appointment Looms in New York City

New York, March 19 (AP)—A court fight to block the $8,000 a year appointment of Bertrand Russell as professor philosophy at New York City College was foreshadowed today after the board of higher education overrode protests against the appointment by a vote of 11 to 7.

The court action was signaled when former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein, acting for critics of Russell's views on morals, served papers in a certiorari proceeding on Ordway Tead, chairman of the board, who championed Russell's cause. The certiorari writ, scheduled for a hearing on March 27, in supreme court, seeks to annul the appointment on the ground that Russell lacks the necessary qualifications for a teacher as set forth in the state education law. # Germans Expect 'New Order' in Europe As Result of Brenner Pass Conference; Might 'Neutralize' Balkan Countries

Rapprochement Talk Held Possible Before 3-Way Split of Balkan Spheres of Influence

Provides Supplies

Neutralization of Balkans Assures Nazis of Many Needed Supplies

Rome, March 19 (AP)—The possibility that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini are considering ways of "neutralizing" Germany's Balkan flank so as to free her for an offensive on the western front emerged today as the chief point of diplomatic speculation on what transpired in their historic Brenner Pass rendezvous.

There was talk, too, of a possible rapprochement between Italy and Soviet Russia before any three-way division of Balkan spheres of influence.

Diplomatic observers saw "neutralization" of the Balkans not only as a flank protection for Germany, but also as a means of assuring her an unbroken flow of supplies overland to counter the allied naval blockade.

These sources believed that Hitler in his two and one-half hour railway car conference yesterday with Il Duce sought assurance that Italy stands ready to consider throwing her active military support to Germany if the Reich should sustain too heavy losses in a smash on the western front. Conjecture was the only available answer to the question of whether Hitler went back to Germany with such assurance.

Closest Account

The closest to an authoritative account of the Hitler-Mussolini conference—and this couched chiefly in negative terms—came from Giovanni Ansaldo, editor of Il Telegrafo, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's Leghorn newspaper.

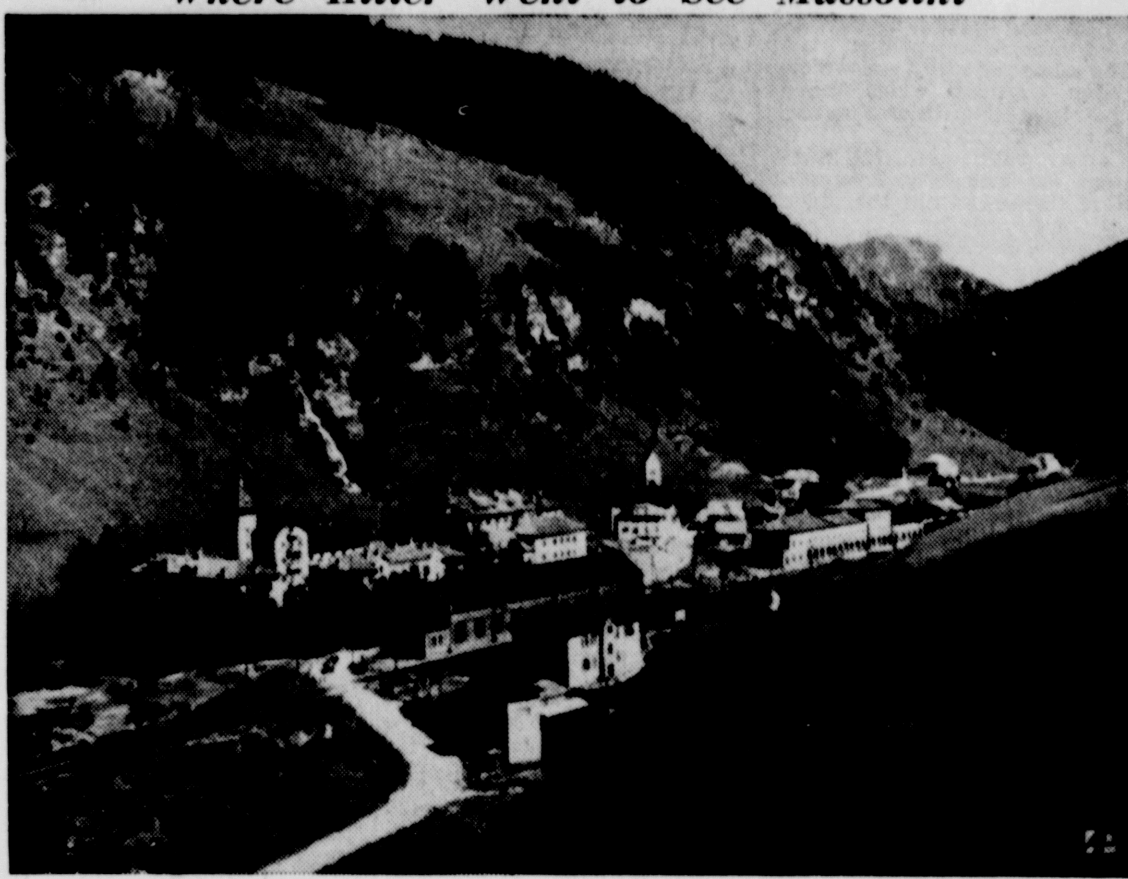

He denied that the conference meant a change of Italian attitude or that it was "linked with any intercontinental mission or any peace plans elaborated by the ministries of the two Romes"—Fascist Italy and the Vatican.

Ansaldo acknowledged that the coincidence of the meeting with the presence in Rome of President Roosevelt's fact-finder, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, had led to hopes of something "sensational."

The editor declared that the face-to-face conversation of the Italian and German leaders was "not brought about through Italy's desire to change her attitude, which rests and will rest as is well known, first of all, upon the scrupulous observance of under-

Peace News Is Empty, Stephen Early Reports

White House Aide Says No Information Is Transmitted to U. S. on 11 Points 'Suggested' at Brennero Meeting

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, said today that on the basis of authoritative reports received by the American government, "peace headlines would appear to be very empty."

The White House aide asserted that no information had been transmitted to this government to support published stories that 11 points had been suggested as a basis for European peace at yesterday's conference between Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

Asked whether he could say anything about reports from Rome, Early replied:

"Nothing more than that I think you can say, on the basis of all authorized reports received by this government, which have been made available to the President and have been carefully read and analyzed by him, there seems to be no basis in fact for reports published in London, Paris, Rome, Berlin or other capitals that give an authoritative basis for peace; that the publication of those reports should not change the opinions of newspaper readers of this country and others by giving them hope for peace or cause for despair of peace."

Old rivermen in discussing the movement of the ice expressed the opinion that there was hardly any danger to be expected from an ice jam, or flood conditions if the weather continued as at present.

Berlin Sources Say Nazis Are Determined Victory Shall Bring Security to Nation

Changes Necessary

Italy-Germany Must Make Distinctions in Forms of Belief

Berlin, March 19 (AP)—Germans look forward to "a new European order" to come from the forging of a Rome-Berlin-Moscow axis.

After Reichsfuehrer Hitler returned to Berlin today from his historic meeting with Italy's Premier Mussolini in Brenner Pass authorized German sources commented to this effect:

"We are determined to end this war victoriously and thereafter to make sure that Germany's essential life interests are secured for all time and never again threatened by plutocratic democracies."

They neither confirmed nor denied previous intimations that a Russian-Italian accord, extending the Rome-Berlin axis, was impending; but in response to one question the sources left no doubt that they believed peace would be preserved in the Balkans.

Hitler returned at noon (6 a. m. E. S. T.) from yesterday's conference at Brennero and received an ovation from a large crowd which gathered hurriedly as the train pulled in. Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the reichsfuehrers' ranking aide, headed the welcoming officials.

One authorized commentator, dealing with Russian-Italian relations—believed to have been one major topic of the Brenner Pass discussion—said a distinction must be drawn between practical politics and ideologies.

The Berlin-Rome axis was founded on both, he said, while relations to Russia naturally could not include agreement on ideologies.

Hence, it was held impossible for Moscow to join the axis in the same sense in which Italy and Germany now are partners, but quasi extension of the axis to Moscow for certain practical objectives could be envisaged.

Economic Realm

For instance in the economic realm, Italy, Germany and Russia could well work together. In the political realm also, they could dovetail their interests, especially in southeastern Europe. There also they could work together to ward off any possible encroachment by western European powers on their vital interests.

Ideologically there was a great gulf between Communism on the one hand and Nazism and Fascism on the other, but these differences did not interfere with the realistic policies followed by all three of the powers.

Summers were general that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop would confer soon with Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov as an intermediary for Italian-Russian rapprochement. These were accompanied by expectation that the three-power axis might be established before the week is over.

Such possibilities found strength in the unusually plain language which the commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland used—apparently with official sanction—to interpret yesterday's Hitler-Mussolini conference:

"In no way is German-Italian cooperation limited to partial solutions and to warding off English attempts at befuddling the issues. It is evidently to serve as a focus for a more far-reaching combination through which the European order is to be placed on new national and social foundations."

"In the German view, Russia too belongs in such a system of order. Russia has shown a remarkable understanding for Italy's attitude and for Italian awareness of maneuvers by British-French diplomacy in the Balkans and the Near East."

"It may therefore be concluded that a far-going unanimity exists among the three great powers, Germany, Italy and Russia, not only in a defensive sense but also in a constructive sense of desiring to rear a new European order."

Hardenbergh May Lease Reed House

Negotiations Are Pending Is Report Heard Today

Purchase by the county of Ulster of the property adjoining the county clerk's office on Main street, known as the Eagle Hotel property, may be responsible for a change in location of the Hardenbergh Company furniture store about May 1.

It is understood that negotiations are now pending for the lease of the old Colonial stone residence property of Mrs. Clara Norton Reed at 43 Crown street by William Hardenbergh.

Negotiations have been under way for some time for the lease of the premises by The Hardenbergh Co. but it was stated today that there had been no lease signed.

Details of the transaction were not available. The county shortly will begin alterations of the Main street premises now occupied by the Hardenbergh Company store. When alterations are completed the premises will house county offices and also the Motor Vehicle Bureau which is now located on Fair street.

Civil War Might Break Out in India, If Gandhi, British Reach Compromise

Ramgarh, India, March 19 (AP)—The possibility of civil war in India in event of a compromise between the Gandhi-controlled all India National Congress party and "Imperial Britain" was advanced today by Subhas Chandra Bose, former congress president, who has called a rumormongering session of dissenters.

London, March 19 (AP)—Vowing to fight on for a "moral peace," Prime Minister Chamberlain today proclaimed the allies' readiness for anything the axis powers are preparing, defended his course in the Finnish war and warned Norway and Sweden they are in grave danger.

A packed House of Commons heard the grizzled prime minister make these statements in a sweeping resume of British policy. He termed the German air raid on Scapa Flow Saturday a failure and declared "the time and place for us to strike" must be decided by experts.

Chamberlain compared Britain's aims with the "moral peace" outlined Saturday by President Roosevelt.

"We intend to fight until it has been secured," he said.

His speech, one of the longest war reviews he has made, contained these salient points:

The allies are ready and watchful for anything which might evolve from the Hitler-Mussolini meeting at Brenner Pass.

Sumner Welles, gathering information for President Roosevelt, had a chance to see the allies' "unity of purpose."

The Finnish-Russian peace terms brought danger to the very "doorstep" of Sweden and Norway.

Before the northern war ended the allies were preparing 100,000 men to help the Finns as well as their Scandinavian neighbors who were threatened with German attack if they allowed passage of foreign troops.

Only one warship was damaged in the Scapa Flow raid Saturday; all battleships and battle cruisers came through unscathed.

The government's policy was attacked after Chamberlain spoke by the two opposition leaders, Liberal Sir Archibald Sinclair and Laborite Clement Attlee, and by Leslie Hore-Belisha, who was ousted as war minister in a cabinet shake-up on January 5.

All three scored the government for allowing Germany to keep the initiative in the war.

Hore-Belisha, chief critic of the government's policy in last week's brief Commons debate, declared today that events have shown that it was "unfortunate that the allies allowed their intended initiative to be wrested from them."

Asserting that the blockade was the "sole offensive weapon" they have employed to bring about the defeat of Germany, Hore-Belisha asked: "Is it enough or must we intensify our pressure in other directions?"

He declared that those who visited the Finnish front were uniformly of the opinion that "a powerful reinforcement in the air could have broken the Russian onslaught."

"Britain and France hesitated, the enemy acted and Finland was lost," Hore-Belisha said.

Drop Indicated In Steel Operations

Steel operations for this week are scheduled at 62.4 per cent of ingot capacity, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute. This is a drop of 2.3 points from last week and compares with a rate of 67.1 per cent a month ago. A year ago the rate was 55.4 and in the same week in 1938 it stood at 37.7 per cent of capacity.

Some evidence that the decline in industrial production is slowing down is seen in the report by the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System which indicates that the rate of decline in its seasonally adjusted index of industrial production is slackening this month. The board's index fell from 119 per cent of the 1923-25 average in January to 109 per cent in February. It is now believed that the rate will remain above the 103 per cent level at which it stood last August before the outbreak of the war. The index reached a high of 128 in December.

A plan for merger of Curtiss-Wright Corp. and Atlas Corp. has been agreed upon by directors and will be submitted to stockholders in about three weeks. Combined stocks of the corporations have a current market value of $165,000,000. Atlas will put about $36,500,000 new capital into Curtiss-Wright and the latter's Class A stock will be eliminated.

Safeway Stores, Inc., plans to offer approximately $15,000,000 of five per cent preferred. Proceeds will be used to retire around $13,600,000 six and seven per cent cumulative preferred, redeemable at 110.

There are indications that net of Westinghouse Electric in the first quarter this year may top the 1939 quarter by 40 per cent. January and February earnings bettered that rate and it is understood that there has been no let-down in March.

Proxy statement shows that American Smelting paid Francis H. Brownell, chairman, $102,510 in 1939 as chairman of the board of the finance committee and as president and director of two subsidiaries. In addition he received $20,000 from General Cable Corp. and $20,250 from Revere Copper & Brass.

Although changes in averages were negligible, with the close irregularly higher in Monday's trading on the stock exchange, 82 stocks were listed as making new lows for 1940, with 11 making new highs. Generally a cautious policy was in evidence as Wall Street prepared for anything that might eventuate from the Hitler-Mussolini conference at Brenner Pass.

With volume at 510,000 shares, Industrials in the Dow-Jones list closed at 145.59, a net loss for the day of .17 point. Rails had a better tone and showed a small gain, .08 for the day, closing at 29.86. Utilities also rose .02, to 24.04.

Commodities moved in a more restricted range and staple prices turned steady in late trading although the rise was not sufficient to erase earlier losses. The index was off .21 point at the close. Cotton declined on foreign selling and closed two to six points lower after a partial recovery in late trading.

It is understood that there is increasing curtailment of operations in textile mills, with operations as much as 30 per cent under recent schedules in some cases. Wheat futures fluctuated widely and closed 3/4 to 1/2 cent a bushel lower at Chicago. Bids of 12 cents a pound for hides compared with a sale last week at 12 1/2 cents and some recent big trades as high as 13 1/4 cents. Reported that Russia recently purchased several thousand tons of Ukrainian raw sugar at between 1.17 and 1.40 cents a pound, f.o.b.

Kennecott Copper had a sharp rise in earnings in 1939, net for the year being $33,947,443, equal to $3.14 a common share and comparing with net in previous year of $22,689,660, or $2.10 a share.

White Motor Co. reports net of $107,472, or 17 cents a share from 1939 operations, as against a net loss of $1,825,275 in the preceding year.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Coincidence: Up at Old Greenwich during the summer we became acquainted with a large, deep-voiced man who was resting after a long siege of pneumonia. After awhile we learned that he was a celebrated basso who had sung with the Metropolitan, Chicago and Boston opera companies and in the principal parts of the Old and New worlds. He hadn't recovered strength enough to sing, but evenings, when no one else was around, he would hum bits of grand opera for us along with old favorites such as "Annie Laurie." When we parted it was with an agreement to meet again during the winter. The other evening I recalled those summer evenings and made a note to give him a ring the next morning. While waiting for breakfast to be served, I picked up a newspaper which opened at the obituary page. And there I read that Edward Lankow, eminent basso, had died the night before.

One Little Pig: Felix Adler, circus clown, about a month ago gave Georgia Sothorn a suckling pig which sat on its haunches and drank beer. Miss Sothorn grew quite fond of the little animal, which she kept in her apartment, though it did escape in Central park one day and police had to find it. But she had to leave for Washington to start a theatrical tour so she gave her pet to Russ Morgan. He planned to send it to his farm at Lenhartsville, Pa., but the pig won his heart. So he kept it in his apartment until his wife and neighbors made complaints. Next he hired a room for the pig but there were more complaints. So he boarded it nights and kept it with him days, leading it around like a puppy. But his friends complained. Thus after a week, he had to send it to the farm. It departed in a private auto with the whole band playing a musical farewell. And now Morgan won't eat pork.

Enterprise: New York kids are quick on the trigger when it comes to earning change. Every rain storm brings them out as umbrella renters. They also open taxi doors, wipe windshields, etc. The latest source of income is waiting in line at the Capitol and Astor theaters where "Come With the Wind" is playing. Would-be patrons, who turn away because of the length of the lines, are approached with a proposition to have their waiting done for them for a fee of from 25 cents up. Through experience some of the line waiters have learned to so estimate the time that their employers, on their return, walk right up to the box office.

Comment: Having once been a child prodigy himself, violinist Iso Briselli is sympathetic to sprouting geniuses. So when a doting mother recently asked him to listen to her son, "positively a wonder," despite his better judgment, he consented. Bravely he endured the scratching and scraping but it was the last straw when the moppet's beaming parent turned to him and exclaimed proudly, "It's a very difficult piece, you know."

"Difficult" daggered Briselli. "I wish it had been impossible."

End Piece: During the demolition of a mid-town structure the foreman of the wrecking crew was no end annoyed by an ancient's criticisms of his methods. Finally he was worn down to the point where he asked his critic if he thought he knew more about tearing down that building than he did.

"I should," was the calm reply. "I put it up."

Court Declines To Act on Writ

Justice Pierce Russell today declined to recognize an order of extradition and return Harry J. Bond to New Jersey to answer to a charge of abandonment and non-support which was named in an indictment found by a New Jersey grand jury, on the grounds Bond was not a resident of New Jersey at the time of the alleged abandonment.

The matter came up under a writ of certiorari secured from Justice Witschell of Poughkeepsie after Justice Harry E. Scudder of this district had declined to grant a writ of habeas corpus in the matter on application of John Bonomi who appeared in the proceeding for Mr. Bond.

Bond, employed on the New York city water works, lives in Ellenville. He claims he brought his wife to Ellenville to live when he secured a job and that after staying there for a few months she did not like the town or the people and returned to her mother's home in New Jersey. He denied that he had abandoned her and contended that she had refused to live in Ellenville where he is employed.

Testimony was taken in the matter which took the entire morning in Supreme Court. Mrs. Stella Bond said she and her husband had lived in Elizabeth, N. J., where they rented an apartment. In 1938 her husband came to Ellenville to get work and she came with him and remained from June until after Labor Day when she returned to New Jersey. Her residence in Ellenville, she said, had been temporary and she never considered her legal residence in New York state.

Mrs. Bond testified that in 1937 she and her husband lived at 1023 Hillside Road, Elizabeth, N. J., and during that year he came to New York temporarily to work but returned to New Jersey. In May, 1938, he was sent to Ellenville by the union for a job and in June she came and remained until after Labor Day.

That residence at Ellenville, she said, had been discussed and they understood to be temporary and that they were to return to New Jersey. She told the court when they came to Ellenville their furniture had been placed in storage in New Jersey and they lived at a rooming place at 65 Center street, Ellenville, during the time she was here. Mr. Bond said she voted in 1938 and 1939 in New Jersey and considered it her home. In 1938 she also secured a driver's license in New Jersey and gave Center street, Ellenville, as her place of residence.

Her 1939 license gave Pine Brook, N. J., as her residence. She told the court she had gone back to New Jersey at her husband's suggestion in order to attend a beauty school and complete her course and that he sent her money until December 1938, but had sent no money since. In February 1939, however, he visited her in New Jersey and paid several visits during the winter. Mr. Bond claimed he had sent no money because he was unemployed when the job shut down for the winter. In 1939 she applied for relief in New Jersey.

In reply to a question by the court Mrs. Bond said her husband had not wanted her to move with him to New Jersey. Bond was arrested on a New Jersey warrant February 15, 1940, by Sergeant Hopkins and held for extradition to New Jersey. Bond refused to return to New Jersey and claimed that he was not a resident of New Jersey but lived in New York and the court of New Jersey had no legal right to return an indictment.

It was this contention that was upheld by Justice Russell who said he could not see where a New Jersey residence was maintained by Mr. and Mrs. Bond after they gave up their apartment and put their furniture in storage in 1938. "She sought to live in New Jersey," said the court, but held that under the law a home is where a husband has employment and is willing to maintain a home and support his wife.

In the Bond case he said she had not desired to remain with her husband. In ruling on the writ Justice Russell said that Bond was under obligations to support his wife and said an action for support should have been commenced in this county where Bond is and where he held his legal residence.

Bond denied allegations that he did not want to live with his wife because of a friendly feeling toward one Vail, who now lives in Ellenville. He said he saw the Vail girl when he went to visit her folks, who formerly lived in New Jersey but he denied he had ceased to support his wife because he "thought more" of the Vail girl.

Bond said he stopped payments when he was out of work in the winter of 1938 and had not felt he was "obliged to" resume payments next spring when he secured work. He admitted he had paid nothing to his wife for her support recently.

Bond said he voted in New York in 1938 and considered New York his home state.

Officers were here to take Bond back to New Jersey to answer to the indictment. When Justice Russell ruled that Bond's residence was in Ellenville, they returned without Bond.

District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Assistant District Attorney Fred Stang appeared in opposition to the writ of certiorari. John Bonomi appeared for Bond.

Minor Improvements

Add to Home's Charm
Often it is the extremely modest home, trim, well kept, and radiating warmth and hospitality, that arouses the interrogation, "Isn't that a lovely home?" It does not take a pretentious mansion to call forth such admiration, for more often than not it is neatness and maintenance that gives the dwelling its appeal.

Frequently a new coat of paint or a new roof will transform a rather drab home into one with a pleasant, inviting atmosphere. Sometimes more is needed—a new porch, a new entrance, dormer windows, a bit of landscaping. If it is a frame house, a brick of stucco veneer or stained shingles may be a better investment.

A check list of things which the home owner could do to modernize the exterior should include: Repair masonry and brickwork, point up masonry, sandblast brickwork, apply transparent waterproofing, make cornices and water tables weather-tight, waterproof basement walls, stucco side walls, brick veneer the exterior, paint weathering surfaces, replace defective flashing, pressure-calking, install outside drain tile to conduct water away from foundation, install new areaways.

Time Hangs Heavy

In Scales of Justice
TULSA, OKLA.—Even judges can be mistaken.

Attorneys waited impatiently in Common Pleas court for the Saturday session to start. The minutes went by and finally the clerk called the judge's name.

"Oh, no, you're mistaken," said the judge blithely. "I don't have a docket until Saturday."

"This," said the clerk, "is Saturday."

The judge's face still was red when he reached the courtroom.

Might Neutralize Balkan Countries

takings of honor and then on care of Italian interest and ideals." Italian newspapers refrained, as if by government suggestion, from writing of a possible "peace offensive," war offensive or any contemplated change in Italy's non-belligerency.

It had been felt that at least one foreigner—Undersecretary Welles—might be let in on the nature of the Hitler-Mussolini exchange, perhaps through another chat with Mussolini before Welles leaves for home with his detailed report on the situation in warring Europe.

No Invitation

However, up to noon today there had been no invitation from Il Duce, and the American's associates insisted he expected none.

This led diplomatic circles to believe that nothing had resulted from the Brenner Pass meeting to supplement what Welles already had learned in Berlin and Rome.

Welles was to have left at 4 p. m. for Genoa to board the liner Conte Di Savoia, which sails for New York tomorrow, but he delayed his departure until 11 p. m.

Whatever happened in the premier's parlor car yesterday on the siding at the frontier station of Brennero it seemed to have pleased Mussolini for when he stepped from his train at Rome last night he wore a smile and at one point on the return trip, Bologna, Il Duce joined a welcoming throng in the singing of Fascist songs.

The belief was general that Il Duce and the Reichsfuehrer reached definite decisions.

About the most to come from the press, however, was a warning against "dubious rumors" published abroad.

The morning papers, however, failed to reiterate that Italy's non-belligerent policy was unchanged and that Germany "knew better than to try to influence Italy"—such statements marked the visit to Rome of German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop 10 days ago.

Consequently, observers wondered whether Hitler had carried points which his envoy had failed to clinch.

Prerequisite to Facts

A rapprochement between Italy and Russia would appear to be a prerequisite for any system of pacts with which the three powers might undertake to guarantee the status quo of southeastern Europe and divide spheres of influence.

In Berlin, it was said Russia is ready to give assurances that she has no designs on Bessarabia, tending to ease the way for Rumanian adherence to the possibly impending Rome-Berlin-Moscow axis.

Another piece in the southeastern mosaic which would have to be fitted into any general "neutralization" scheme is Hungary, and great importance was attached to the coming of Count Pal Teleky, the Hungarian premier, who intends to be in Rome by Sunday.

From Ankara came word that official circles were stressing Turkey's willingness to restore "old ties of friendship" with Soviet Russia. Turkey is bound by mutual assistance pacts to the British-French allies, with the proviso that she will not be required to fight Russia.

Turkish officialdom declared that Turkey's relations with Russia could be strengthened without violating her ties to the allies.

To Berlin's talk of a Rome-Berlin-Moscow axis, usually well informed Rome sources replied that neither Russia nor Italy had taken a step toward improved relations, but it was acknowledged that Germany might assume the role of "matchmaker."

Diplomats tended to discredit continued rumors of an imminent German peace plan. They also expressed doubt that either Pope Pius XII or Undersecretary Welles had any peace plan to offer, however much the Pope and President Roosevelt might desire a settlement.

The Italian government explained its non-belligerency on September 2, the day before Great Britain and France went to war with Germany, by saying that Hitler then considered aid unnecessary.

Now, two years later, Hitler has again gone to see his neighbor for a conference involving, Berlin sources said, extension of the Rome-Berlin axis to Moscow. Left to right: German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Mussolini, Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano; Hitler, Rudolph Hess, one of Hitler's lieutenants, Ciano and von Ribbentrop participated in the new conference.

New Brain Operations May Aid Mental Cases

New brain operations, made possible by patient, difficult research in the "geography" of the brain, may offer hope of sanity to certain types of hitherto hopeless mental cases, according to Dr. J. F. Fulton, professor in the Yale university school of medicine.

Studies of the localization of bodily functions in the brain tissue must take into account, Dr. Fulton points out, not only the human brain, but the brains of various animals at different levels of evolution. This work has established the principle, he said, that the higher the evolutionary progress the more control the frontal lobes have over all the lower levels of nervous function.

Cats, for example, may have the area that controls leg movements removed and suffer only a short period of paralysis and weakness. Marmosets, a bit higher in the scale, behave like the cat, but the paralysis is more enduring. In Pithecoidea monkeys, such as the macaque, removal of the "leg" areas produces profound paralysis from which it takes months to recover. In chimpanzees and in man it produces a permanent paralysis.

These studies of the "geography" of the brain have opened the way to surgical procedures never dared before, Dr. Fulton points out, because it was not known what paralysis, for instance, might follow excision of part of the frontal lobes. Now, without danger of such disaster, it is possible to remove parts of the frontal lobes and restore to certain types of mental patient a cheerful attitude and ability to cope with their problems.

The results of such operations are being compared with the results obtained from the various "shock" treatments for insanity, such as those using insulin and metrazol.

Treatment of Ear Diseases

The most effective way to reduce the incidence of acquired deafness and impaired hearing is early diagnosis and immediate treatment of all diseases of the ears, since infections are often the forerunners of these conditions, according to Horace James Williams, M. D., Philadelphia, writing in the American Medical Journal. Catarrhal and pus-discharging infections of the middle ear generally occur in children before the age of five; therefore the child must be carefully watched during this period for any signs of inflammation or infection of the ears. Sinusitis also plays a part in impaired hearing and deafness, in that when a child cries or vomits, the nasal secretions are forced into the ear tube. These secretions should be removed mechanically.

WAR WON'T HELP ANYONE

President Hoover declared in a recent address at Rutgers University that any hope for a rebirth of the world after a long European conflict is "sheer nonsense." Continuing he added:

"The inevitable degeneration of food productivity alone, not to mention industrial activities, means that the end of the war will bring on the most difficult period ever known. There will be no United States of Europe after this war."

Mr. Hoover was merely summing up in terse and concise language what the principal neutral observers of the world have been feeling and believing for some time. No good came out of the first world war, and little good will come out of this one. If it continues for two or three years, each side will be a loser. All talk about "winning the world for democracy" or giving Germany living room is all so much eyewash.

With the great disruption of world-wide economy and destruction of life and material that seems about to come in a deluge, there can be no happy results from the present war. It would seem that the leaders on both sides of the struggle would be able to see this clearly and to stop the slaughter before it reaches its height. Unless something like this does come about, then the pessimistic predictions made by Mr. Hoover are bound to come true.

In view of the probabilities, there is only one thing that the United States can safely do—keep out of the mess entirely and do its best to save its own citizens and do its best toward helping the rest of the world after it comes out of its present madness.

We must not be misled by high-sounding slogans about what is coming out of this war. The peace, if the struggle continues long, will bring happiness to nobody and despair and disillusion to the majority of mankind. In view of all the probabilities, it behooves us now to keep our heads.

RUSSIANIZATION

What does it mean to come under Russian Communist rules? The Finns of the area that had to be surrendered to the Reds are finding out. William F. McDermott, an American journalist familiar with Russia, gives this picture:

"The Finns who remain will not only have lost what property they had. They will see the coming of a new way of life.

"For a clean Finnish home they will exchange a bed in a room with several other inmates. For the rich and numerous Finnish meals they will exchange an opportunity to wait in line for the first necessities of life.

"For a free vote as to who shall rule them, they will have the privilege of approving rulers who have been chosen for them. For personal freedom they will do what they are told, work where they are told, and enjoy the pleasure of saying yes to whatever indignity is officially proffered them.

"If history is consistent, some of them will be shot and others will wish they had been."

This is what happened in eastern Poland. It will happen in other countries if free nations cannot stem the tide of Bolshevism leagued with Nazism.

NEW FIELD FOR SCALPERS

The railroads have a new problem to contend with. It is the ticket scalper who does with railroad reservations what others have long done with tickets for popular shows, boxing matches, and so on.

It is said that porters, bell captains and others on railroads operating between southern resorts and northern cities buy up train reservations and then sell them at a premium to hurried tourists.

The railroads may be expected to take care of this. In the meanwhile, let us consider the responsibility of the victims of such schemes. Refusal to be a sucker would save a passenger's money. It would be a good plan, too, for a lot of people to curb their willingness to pay "any price" for what they consider a little special service, particularly when that service would not have been necessary if they had planned their travel more wisely.

There are, of course, emergencies which call people suddenly to distant places. There wouldn't be any scalpers to take advantage of their situation if there weren't so many other people who patronize them needlessly.

"SERPENT WORSHIP"

An unusual bit of news, in these sophisticated days, is the announcement that the Kentucky legislature has passed a bill "out-lawing the handling of snakes in religious ceremonies."

This strange practice, which suggests West Indian voodooism rather than anything we should expect to find in the United States, is said to exist in some parts of the Kentucky mountains.

It must be admitted, though, that "there's something about snakes." Something different from all other creatures. Something mysterious and, to many people, fascinating.

This mysterious quality has always been recognized, in sacred as well as profane lore. In the Book of Genesis it is recorded that "the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which Jehovah God has made," and he it was that tempted the First Parents to their fall. According to that mystical account it was the serpent who opened their eyes to a knowledge of good and evil.

Perhaps it is no wonder that some modern minds, not well instructed, yield to the ancient fascination.

After Sumner Welles gets back with all the lurid stories he is hearing in Europe he ought to get Orson Welles to make a drama out of them.

Who remembers the good old days when all the news we got from Europe was about the Olympic games?

FEAR OF HEART DISEASE

If you find yourself getting out of breath easily, feel tired all the time, have pains in region of the heart, faintness, dizziness, pounding in the ears, you are likely to begin worrying about your heart. As there is no indigestion, no lung or kidney symptoms, you feel that there must be something wrong with the heart. Under such circumstances your best plan is to report to your family physician because he knows not only your heart, but your general make-up. He knows you.

Now it is quite possible to have all the above symptoms and have a normal heart. Just as soon as you begin to worry about your heart (when it is really sound) you are said to have a neurosis—heart or cardiac neurosis.

"Cardiac neurosis is a condition in which the patient has symptoms which he believes are caused by heart disease but which are not due in any way to any organic changes in the heart itself."

Pain is more frequently present in cardiac neurosis than in organic disease—failing heart; except the pain due to partial blocking of bloodvessels supplying heart—coronary thrombosis.

"Among other symptoms more common in cardiac neurosis than in real or organic heart disease are weakness, sighing, sleeplessness, ringing or pounding in the ears, and faintness, dizziness, nervousness, irritability, and flushes. The menopause (change of life), a low-grade infection or anaemia, a sudden intestinal disturbance, high emesis (colic irrigation) or a severe bout of seasickness, may bring on the attack which the patient thinks is due to heart disease.

An editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association, states:

Cardiac neurosis is a distinct group of symptoms which can be recognized, even when real or organic heart disease is present. These signs or symptoms are due to an inherited or acquired predisposition to neurosis (fear of an ailment), a definite circumstance such as infection, thin blood, upset of stomach or intestine which brings on the symptoms; breast pain; tenderness in breast; relief by simple means—a quieting medicine and reassurance by the physician that no heart disease is present.

It can thus be seen that an individual can suffer with the above symptoms whether or not heart disease is present, because these symptoms are brought on by nervousness due to the fear that they are really symptoms of heart disease.

Neurosis
 Do you worry about an ailment which you believe you have although medical tests do not reveal it? Do you sometimes feel "compelled" to do things you know to be foolish? Send for Dr. Barton's interesting booklet "Neurosis" (No. 103) which explains such conditions. Send your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents for handling, and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Smokescreen Hides Current Investigation of Federal Bureau of Investigation, Shows Influences at Work Beneath Surface

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)
 Washington, March 19—Every now and then a smokescreen is drawn across the face of a controversy hereabouts which makes it seem one thing on the surface when quite another set of influences is at work under cover of an attack.

Such a situation envelops the recurring bombardment that is being visited on the Federal Bureau of Investigation, commonly known as the "FBI" and headed by J. Edgar Hoover. Lately, for instance, there has been a hue and cry about wire-tapping and Attorney General Jackson has just issued an order that there must not be any eavesdropping on the telephone lines.

But actually the amount of wire-tapping practiced by G-Men was relatively insignificant and was confined to kidnapping and certain types of criminal action wholly disconnected from any political or social questions. Yet the wire-tapping controversy has been used in an attempt to produce a Senate investigation of the FBI.

Digging into the facts of such a tangled piece of intrigue, one finds several forces in America anxious to break down the highly efficient staff of the FBI. One is the underworld which would be happy, indeed, to see J. Edgar Hoover out of the picture. Another is the group of agents of foreign governments who are engaged in espionage right now because of the large amount of war contracts placed here by the allies. Russia and Nazi agents are very active nowadays and they often use innocent Americans as their dupes in schemes to accomplish their objectives.

The attack on J. Edgar Hoover, who has for many years been a career man in the government service without any political affiliations, comes at a time when Communist activity is being investigated a little more effectively than ever before. Thus the arrest of certain persons in Detroit for securing enlistments for the Spanish Loyalists has been made the occasion of a general barrage from left-wing quarters in America. The facts show that whatever was done in Detroit was at the instance of Frank Murphy, who was attorney general, and that alleged raiding at an early hour in the morning and other incidents complained of were done by the local United States attorney and U. S. marshal, who have accepted full responsibility.

But the effort to besmirch the FBI has not been confined to alien forces. Some of it has arisen in the Senate itself where, though confessing that he had no facts, a denunciation of the FBI was made by Senator Norris of Nebraska. The senator is himself such an honest person that it is surprising he permitted himself to be made the vehicle of any such attack as that being engineered against the FBI.

For several years there has been a feud between the various detective agencies of the government. Sometimes it has been good-natured rivalry and sometimes it

HUDSON RIVER

STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 134—John Mason

The steamboat "John Mason" was one of the fleet of earlier Hudson river vessels. Because of her small size and inability to cope with the larger steamboats of that period, the records of her service have been almost completely obscured by the episodes of the era when steam navigation on the Hudson river was climbing towards its peak.

The year of 1830 marks the construction date of the "John Mason," a small size side-wheel passenger vessel built for service on the Hudson river. At the beginning of her career she was placed in service between New York, Albany, and Troy, by an independent organization which attempted to furnish opposition to the larger steamboat companies. During this period in river transportation the traveling public was speed-conscious, and great was the rivalry between opposition lines in an endeavor to furnish the fastest service between Albany and New York city.

Larger steamboats were built, designed to travel at greater speeds at the sacrifice of safety, and amid flames which claimed many lives of unfortunate passengers who traveled in this era, the small size steamboat "John Mason" found her existence a difficult one.

Finally the People's Line purchased the "John Mason" and used her as a tender to the larger night boats—running her between Albany and Troy.

In 1833 a newspaper account referring to the "John Mason" states, "The 'John Mason,' Captain Truesdale, will ply between Albany and Troy for the purpose of carrying passengers as a tender to the Hudson River Line of steamboats. She will make four round trips a day, and will also tow vessels and canal boats at hours when it is convenient."

Two years later another account shows the "John Mason" making five trips per day between Albany and Troy, under the auspices of the old Hudson River Steamboat Association; and on March 30, 1837, a small item in the local newspaper states that the "John Mason," a small steamboat, Captain Truesdale, left Albany for New York with a large number of passengers.

The steamboats owned by the People's Line were sold at public auction in the Merchants Exchange, New York City, on December 26, 1849, and records show that the "John Mason" was one of these vessels but fail to state who her new owners might have been.

Further records of Hudson river navigation contain the notation that the steamboat "John Mason" was eventually converted into a hay barge and was in service on the river for many years in the final disposition of the "John Mason" have been lost in a maze of data concerning the histories of Hudson river steamboats.

Grand Jury Hands Up Report, Before Justice Russell

Russell will dispose of several of these today on pleas of guilty which were entered on arraignment of defendants Monday. Five of the defendants who entered pleas of guilty will be sentenced today after Justice Russell has had an opportunity to investigate the records of the defendants and also the crimes with which they are charged.

In two additional cases where defendants at first entered a plea of guilty Justice Russell directed that pleas of not guilty be entered so that he might assign counsel and also consult with the defendants.

Robbins' Case Heard

Edward Robbins, Kingston colored youth, charged with grand larceny for the taking of a Packard car from the Doyle agency and damaging it before he said he had returned it to the agency said he had no intention of stealing the car and told the court he was willing to pay for damages. He said he had "never stole anything" but admitted that he had been involved in the taking of Dr. Holcomb's car and also that he had once taken Dr. Jacobson's car and had not "brought it back in time." He said he had no intention of stealing the cars.

Mr. Haver told the court that he had known Robbins a long time and he would not take a plea of guilty to grand larceny, first degree, for the taking of the Packard car on January 27, last, except for the fact that he knew the past record of the lad. Mr. Haver told the court Robbins had desired to plead guilty. However, Justice Russell directed that the plea be denied at the present and a plea of not guilty entered so he might investigate further.

'Had to Sleep'

William Thompson of Baltimore, Md., who said he had worked throughout the west and at various jobs, was also requested to plead not guilty to a charge of unlawful entry to a building on March 13, after he had at first accepted that a plea of guilty be accepted.

Thompson said he had entered the Joe Hasbrouck barn near Modena because he had to find a place to sleep. It was late at night and he was afraid to ask for permission, because he was afraid he would be either shot or bitten by a dog if he went to the house. He said he "had to go in" to sleep. Admitting he had once been in a reform school, Thompson said he had served in the chain gang on the road gang in Georgia for six months because he had been found to be a vagrant. He was hurt and unable to work so he was then discharged. Thompson said he had not been convicted of any crime but with others found guilty of vagrancy, disorderly conduct or being drunk, he had been sent to the Georgia chain gang to work roads simply because he could find no job. Counsel will be assigned to Thompson later.

Sadness Is Indicted

Ronald J. Sadness, who is accused of purchasing a car in Ellenville on February 10, last, and giving a bad check in payment and then taking the car to Florida, was indicted for grand larceny, first degree. He pleaded not guilty and asked that counsel be assigned. Sadness asked that bail be set and Justice Russell set it at $3,500 but later cancelled that sum when District Attorney Haver explained that Sadness had a criminal record. Mr. Haver told the court Sadness had been placed on probation for 15 years in California in 1937 when he had pleaded guilty to statutory rape and that he had also been a member of a road gang for 15 months. He also alleged a conviction in Connecticut. Sadness denied the first charge and the prosecuting officer. Bail will be set later after the court has investigated the matter further.

Pleads Not Guilty

Bernard Kozlowski, 40, of 169 Murray street, Kingston, pleaded not guilty to endangering life by maliciously placing an explosive near a building. Under the law a term of 25 years may be given on conviction. A plea of not guilty was entered and Kozlowski asked the court's permission to make a statement. He said he had not stolen anything. "I did not do any damage and I did not threaten anyone's life," but he said that he appeared to be charged with threatening someone's life. The charge grows out of the explosion of dynamite on February 4, near the home of defendant's sister on

Play-off Dinner To be Held in April

At a meeting of the delegates of the Federation of Men's Clubs, held Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A., the Federation League baseball "play-off dinner" was set for April 12, Friday evening, at Trinity Lutheran Church. Chicken and biscuits will be the approved menu.

The "All-Star" softball game will be played at St. James Church on Wednesday evening April 17. A nominating committee was named to select a slate of officers to be presented at the May meeting of the Federation. That committee is Aaron Gray, chairman, Percy Slover and William Jackson. There will be no meeting of the delegates in April.

Plans for starting the Federation softball league were made. The league will start during the week of May 6 and the following committee was named to consult with Mayor C. J. Heiselman and secure adequate playing fields. That committee is Al Reese, chairman, John Hotaling and Percy Slover. It was voted to make all official games of seven innings and names of eligible players must be in by April 28.

Report on the Federation party at the auditorium was made as well as one on the "fellowship breakfast" held Sunday.

VISIT OF ECONOMY CAR

The stock Mercury auto, making the tri-state economy run through New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, with a special device to indicate the exact amount of gasoline consumed for 3,500 miles, was in Kingston yesterday, and Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman added his name to the list of other city fathers who inspected the car in communities previously visited. The mayor is shown signing the economy inspection register in front of the local Ford showrooms of James Millard & Son, opposite the central post-office.

Murray street. No one was hurt in the blast which rocked the locality. Kozlowski's bail had been set by County Judge Traver at $7,500 and after listening to the charge and the circumstances Justice Russell continued that bail.

Richard Lynch, 23, of New Paltz pleaded not guilty to an arson, second degree charge, growing out of the burning of the Cora Wadsworth barn at New Paltz on February 28, last. He said he had been in Middletown State Hospital once for a month. A mental examination has been made of the defendant since he had been in custody. Counsel will be assigned.

Walter Walker, charged with assault, first degree, alleged to have been committed on January 15, last pleaded not guilty and asked the court to assign counsel. Walker, Marlborough resident, is accused of shooting Lee Rush in the neck with a .22 calibre rifle during an argument. Walker told the court he could not get bail and did not ask the court to fix any amount.

Edwin C. Smith pleaded guilty to unlawful entry to the Babcock Milk Bar on the Saugerties road on January 20, 1939 and sentence will be pronounced later. Smith, from the town of Saugerties, said he did not plead guilty to a first charge of burglary, third degree.

John Bishop of Poughkeepsie, who said his home had been in Columbus, Ohio, pleaded not guilty to burglary, third degree, for the entering of a summer place at Gardiner, but pleaded guilty to unlawful entry to the property on January 25, 1940. He will be sentenced later.

Joseph Koenig, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry to the Mattarazzo barber shop in Milton on March 5, last pleaded guilty to burglary, third degree. He is alleged to have taken a pair of hair clippers. He too, will be sentenced later.

Michael Butler of Rosendale and Paul Perez of New York city were charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry for entering a bungalow at Bearsville on March 7, last. They pleaded guilty to unlawful entry and will be sentenced later.

Three indictments were returned against Frank Scott and Gilbert Schoonmaker of Walden charging burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry. The two lads are alleged to have been the boys who gave the State Police many a headache in southern Ulster and in Orange county. The first charge alleged the acts on December 1, 1938, the second on December 8, 1938, and the third on December 15, 1938. They pleaded not guilty. There was also a bill charging Schoonmaker with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, on August 25, 1939, to which he pleaded not guilty.

Schoonmaker with Daniel Cooley were charged with the unlawful entry on February 7, 1940, and also burglary October 29, 1939. Pleas of not guilty were entered. Cooley was represented by Earl H. Houghtaling.

Scott said he did not desire an attorney. Mr. Haver informed the court that Orange county had just filed a warrant with Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux asking that the lads be held for Orange county officials. Mr. Haver told the court that there had been a desire to enter pleas of guilty on the part of some of the defendants but since the Orange county warrant had been received he desired to hold the matter pending a talk with the Orange county officials.

Dismissals were found in the following cases and the defendants discharged:

The People vs. William Van Dyke and Harry Steinman, a charge of gambling. The grand jury recommended that the matter be referred to city court.

The People vs. Thomas Kelly, a grand larceny charge, and the grand jury recommended that the matter be heard in justice's court in Saugerties. It involves the disappearance of jewelry.

The People vs. Roy Towne, a charge of rape.

The People vs. George S. Williams and Leonard Parise, a charge of entering the Babcock Milk Bar.

The People vs. Archie Rose, Jr., a rape charge.

Where no bills were found the defendants were discharged from custody except in the Kelly case.

entirely by the railroad in coming years.

"The safety of the motorist will be more effectively protected by investing the bond issue moneys in the elimination of dangerous intersections of highways. The number of accidents occurring on railroad grade crossings has been tremendously reduced, while the accidents on highways have not."

Reading of the governor's message brought immediate reference by Republican Assembly Majority Leader Irving M. Ives to the executive recommendation for $8,500,000 cuts in state aid for highways as an economy move.

"How can the governor reconcile this statement about highways with his previous proposal for reduction in highway state aid?" Ives demanded. "Can it be possible that the governor is beginning to back up?"

In order to authorize transfer of the funds for highway purposes, the legislature would be required to adopt a constitutional amendment both this year and next year to permit its submission to the electorate in November, 1941. If approved by the voters, the money would be made available immediately.

Lehman emphasized the plan would not increase the bonded indebtedness of the state "beyond that which is already authorized by the people."

"It simply changes the purpose for which part of the balance of an authorized bond issue can be used," he explained. "It seeks to make better use of that balance. It is my considered judgment that in no better way can substantially increased funds for road and parkway purposes be secured by the state unless we are willing to have the people of the state authorize an entirely new bond issue for highways and parkways."

Miss Plough Gets Merchants' Award

Miss Sara Plough of 5 Joy's Lane, a nurse employed at the Tuberculosis Hospital, won the $25 grand prize award offered by the Uptown Business Men's Association in the "Spring Opening" contest and submitted the figure closest to the total value of merchandise displayed in the contest windows last Thursday and Friday. Apparently submitting her figure on a "hunch" she placed the value at $10,000.50. The actual retail value of the merchandise displayed in the contest windows was $11,975.18.

Estimates were submitted by a number of people and these estimates ran all the way from $3,940 to $51,969. In addition to the prize offered by the association for the total value of all of the contest windows, there were individual prizes given by individual merchants for estimates on the value of their windows. The most expensive display shown was that of Safford & Scudder, jewelers, with a diamond display valued at slightly less than $4,000.

The grand prize was awarded by the committee on Tuesday after going over the estimates submitted.

Chapter 19

Penic For Two

AFTER dinner, seated on the veranda in one of Great-uncle Timothy's mammoth rockers, listening to the hum of insects which even Old Abe's ancient pipe couldn't keep away, she reversed that thought. Allen wasn't going to have the farm.

She slept that night, slept to make up for the twelve nights she had been away. And in the morning she surveyed her books.

"I believe I'm going to make it," she said aloud. "If things will just keep up. We have the frogs, if we can find enough buyers... and if they keep on increasing in number as they have this last month, I can make that black army swallow the red."

"Abe," she called from the window, "exactly when do the frogs go down?"

Abe ground a stalk of bergamot between his teeth. "Depends," he answered, "on the weather. I've seen them down, come the first of October and I've seen them up, come Christmas."

"But, Abe, this year—what about the weather this year?"

"Only newcomers and danged fools predict weather in California and I ain't a newcomer and I'm danged if I'm goin' to be a danged fool."

Toni laughed helplessly. "Well, if you have any influence with Little Sweetheart, tell her to keep her gang top side until Christmas, will you?"

Toni was happy, joyously happy. She wanted to be in the house, the farm and the garden all at the same time. She was in the garden when Allen Bartell found her.

Startled, she waited, the smile with which she had greeted a rose of her own planting still on her lips.

He came towards her with both hands outstretched and, involuntarily, she lifted hers. He glanced at them, and his face, which had been shadowed, brightened.

"I've been hearing fine things about you," he told her, "and also that you've been working hard enough to rate a holiday. The gang's coming and I have a new speed-boat. How would you like to try it out with me while we wait for Lily to buy something to match it?"

Toni laughed. Lily always bought clothes to match car, boat or background.

"I'd love it," she admitted. She could like Allen this morning, because she wasn't afraid of him.

"Then get into something warm. Well," he added, seeing her frown, "carry something warm. It's liable to be cold and damp on the water."

Toni looked up at the sun, still a little pallid as it waited for the fog to hurry back to its waiting post over the ocean, then sped into the house to change.

Her scarlet bathing suit was doctored, and over this went a dark blue knit suit, blouse and slacks, a knit cap of dark blue and scarlet, scarlet socks and Del Monte sneakers of dark blue, laced with scarlet.

"I wondered if I were never going to get a chance to wear this," she told the watchful housekeeper.

"You look like something cut out of a magazine cover," Mrs. Dougherty told her.

Allen, in white duck and a heavy white wool pull-over was awaiting her. At the end of his little pier the speed-boat danced on the waves. Toni looked at it and stifled a remark. Lily would look atrocious in that mahogany shade, though her hair would match the brass trimming.

"First, before we set foot in the boat, you must promise me something," Allen said gravely.

"Forget The Farm?"

Toni started to draw back.

"From the moment you leave this pier until you return you're to forget about the farm. Forget there is such a thing as a frog, or a will, or a million duties pressing down on your shoulders. Promise!"

Toni gave him a radiant smile. "I do," she answered.

"And, you must promise that you will forget, for that same duration of time, that I have anything to do with that will, that I am or ever was an attorney."

"Are you?" asked Toni pertly.

"There are times when I question it," admitted Bartell. "But seriously, I have complete faith in your word of honor. I want you to give me your word that you will look upon me as—well, any fellow you'd meet socially, will you Toni?"

Toni looked up and looked away. There was no dancing light in Allen Bartell's eyes. They were as serious as Pierre's had ever been.

She thrust out her hand. "All right, I promise," she agreed. "I think I—she stifled the words, that she would like him if he were not Timothy Toland's attorney."

"Yes?" prompted Bartell.

"I think I'd enjoy you better if you were a—piano tuner."

"My word," breathed Allen. "Now I have to take piano tuning. Come on."

Hand in hand they raced to the end of the pier. Jumped into the boat. There was the roar of the engine, then, it seemed to Toni, the boat lifted on wings. The wings, however, were only the sheets of foam-tipped water that the long V-shaped prow threw up. The sun came on and the last sheet of fog fled through the Golden Gate. Sea-gulls, startled from lazy floating, arose to screech their protest.

The boat shot under the bridge, past Alcatraz, headed towards the blue bulk of Mount Tamalpais, then swerved up the straits. It roared past tankers, swirled around waddling ferry boats and clipped close to ocean-bound freighters.

Toni felt that all of life had been caught up in this mad burst of speed, that she and Allen and the boat were one.

"How do you like it?" yelled Allen above the thrum of the engine.

"I could go on like this forever," Toni shouted back.

Instantly there was a change in the engine's hum. It sputtered. Allen leaned forward to pull at the various gadgets on the instrument board. It picked up an even hum and he headed it straight for the north shore. It sputtered again, and then it stopped abruptly.

Allen poled it in on the beach, rolled up his trousers and stepped over to hold his arms out to Toni.

Toni stood up and looked around. They had come ashore on a tiny isolated island, bare of everything but coarse salt grass and sand. Small blue bayous dissected all of the nearby land. Ducks with white throats and red bills, ducks with throats of blue and green and foolish white bands on their heads, paddled around, undisturbed by the visitors. Far to the south, the west and the north, mountains arose in an endless chain of purple.

"You certainly chose a spot from which I couldn't walk home," laughed Toni.

Kidnapped!

"GOOD girl," commented Bartell, and Toni didn't know whether it was because she had allowed him to lift her and carry her to the beach, or because she had accepted the mishap with a laugh.

She settled on the beach and watched him return to the boat. What was he doing? He had opened the little doors which led into the cavern under the hood. Out of it he was bringing blankets, canned goods, dishes, magazines, cigarettes, firewood... and a little pup tent.

"Allen Bartell," she cried, jumping up. "You planned this!"

A thousand foolish fears reared ugly heads to confront her. She was kidnapped. He could keep her here, or some place near here, for weeks and she could do nothing about it. Doty was in league with him. Perhaps Old Abe, and Pierre?

She sighed with relief. Not Pierre! But would Pierre find her before the farm had gone to wrack and ruin?

Bartell jumped out, waded up to where he could remove his supplies, then with the chain of the boat in his hands he came closer.

"You lanned this?" he echoed. "You wanted to keep me away from the farm."

"Hold it," he warned, and closed his eyes. "Remember your promise. Remember it, Toni, because if I forget mine, I'm liable to add murder to the long list of misdeeds."

Toni remembered. But she hadn't counted on this. However, she had promised. She'd live up to it.

"Well don't dawdle around," she scolded. "I'm hungry and I want a swim before lunch."

"Hurrah!" Bartell tossed blankets into the air. "Seriously, Toni, I hadn't planned to land here. I told Doty I was kidnapping you for the day because she and Abe had said you must have a good rest and wouldn't take it. I'd planned on a spot, up beyond Martinez. I think I can reach a duck club when the tide goes down. I'll telephone in for a boat then. Meanwhile—"

Meanwhile, he erected the pup tent and Toni, stripped of her outer clothes, returned to find Allen also in his swim-suit. The water was cold and invigorating. They swam about for nearly an hour, then returned to hunt for kindling driftwood, start a fire with the compressed logs he'd brought, and brew coffee, broil bacon, toast bread.

Allen found some tall sticks and made the tent into an umbrella and lazily they lounged, talking. Never a word was said of the frog farm or the will.

Allen, the man, was a delightful person to know. Toni felt transported to another world, an enchanting world.

"I'd rather be a farmer than anything else," he confessed to Toni, "or an orchardist. I wish you could see my prune trees in bloom, acres of them on the river bottom. They fill the valley with a lake of foam. We'll go up when they're ready to pick. That's a sight too."

It developed they would also go to his El River lodge in the autumn. "I like it best then," said Allen. "You never saw such colors."

Toni listened and wondered what it would be like to go here and there with Allen; compared him with Pierre, who wanted to stay in one spot until that spot was perfected.

She sat up once in protest. She was beginning to envy Lily. How could she, when what she wanted was security, not adventure?

What is so rare as a warm day in March and no wind?

We'll answer that one.

A cheerful companion who doesn't talk too much.

The income tax episode has just come to "light."

After a week's work, a man finally finished his income tax report the evening of March 14. He called his banker and asked him to come down and check it over.

The pair spent an hour at the bank going over it and approving it. The man, with a sigh of relief, put it in an envelope and "mailed" it in a trash box in front of the bank.

Mother-Junior, was it a bad accident when you and the other boy ran into each other on your bicycles?

Junior—Well, he was knocked speechless and my bike was knocked spookless.

Outrageous

Winter's too old for such a prank. The lackadaisical old thing! See how the wretch sneaked back to Frank—

Ly linger in the lap of Spring.

Junior had been reading "Treasure Island." That night when he was at his prayers, his mother was much shocked to hear him say:

"Give us this day our daily bread; y'ho, ho, and a bottle of rum."

The Boston man, careful of his and other folks' grammar, asked the clerk for a man's comb.

Clerk—Do you want a narrow man's comb?

Boston Man—I want a comb for a stout man with rubber teeth.

The springtime may have come, gentle Annie, but nothing but March winds are as yet scattered over the land.

Jerry—What in the world makes you call him a baseball dog?

Perry—Because he wears a muzzie, catches flies, chases fowls, and beats it for home when he sees the catcher coming.

A pretty young nurse was selling poppies. A salesman told her that he would give her a $5 bill for a poppy provided she would promise to nurse him if he even went to her hospital. She agreed.

Salesman—By the way, where is your hospital?

Nurse (mooing), as she put the five-spot in the box—I am at the Queen Charlotte's Maternity Hospital.

A London coroner was telling the story of a death certificate which reached him recently. In the column reserved for "cause of death" the doctor had signed his own name. The coroner returned the certificate with a note which said: "This may be true, but don't you think we had better have some scientific reason as well?"

The Changing World

When called to scold the younger set.

Please, angry parent, don't forget The turkey trot and bunny bug Were kindred to the jitterbug.

And, though you didn't drive a wreck At sixty per and try to neck, Remember when you used to slip The lines around the buggy whip?

Oh, styles are foolish, we admit. But think before you throw a fit Of hobble skirts you used to wear, Of rats and switches in your hair.

The clever pranks you used to play Once turned your own dear parents gray; But still we oldsters rant and shout And hope that youth won't find us out.

First Doctor—Why do you call the new nurse "Appendix?"

Second Doctor—Because all of the doctors want to take her out.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Utopia:
Millfield, N. H.—This town isn't spending any money this year. The voters—all four of 'em—got together and decided no appropriation was necessary.

Sad Songstress
Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—A song from a radio sent a husband off to police headquarters. He recognized the singer as his wife who left him last fall. So he swore out a warrant charging her with desertion.

Utopia, Almost
Cameron, Mo.—The city council virtually threw tax collectors out of a job. It voted to make property owners tax free except for small levies to retire bonds and pay the town band.

Steady Job
Ina, Ill.—Gilbert Wilson, general store operator, keeps his mind on business. He hasn't taken a vacation in 25 years, seen a talking picture or even sneaked off fishing for an afternoon. Furthermore, Wilson has either opened or locked up the store every day in its quarter-century of business.

Painful Stitch
Des Moines, Ia.—Stitching away with his needle and thread, Pasquale Sciarrotta, 26-year-old tailor, sneezed. The needle, thread and all, went up his nose. He tried to pull it out by the thread, but couldn't. A doctor removed it from the back of his mouth in a 15-minute operation.

Slaughter of Deer By Dogs Continues

Reports indicate that chasing and killing of deer by dogs continues, Sunday a doe, chased by dogs, fell when it struck ice and water near the Philip Van Etten farm, on the Sawkill road. The vicious dogs were on the helpless animal at once and were tearing its quarters when the farmer came up and drove the dogs off. Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne was notified, but said that when he arrived the deer got to its feet and went on toward Lake Katrine and apparently across the creek. It left a trail of blood behind and it is thought to have died later from its injuries and exposure.

Winne said that he also came across the remains of a buck that had been killed and eaten by dogs. District Game Inspector DeWitt and game wardens of this district have been doing their best to protect the deer, who have been rendered easy prey to marauding dogs by reason of snow conditions which prevail. Sufficient crust has formed so that the dogs can travel easily, but the sharp hoofs of the deer cut through and either they ultimately break a leg and are helpless or become exhausted and fall victims to their pursuers.

The inspector has asked that owners of dogs keep them tied up or otherwise confined at home until conditions change and the deer once more can protect themselves by flight.

Pension Questions Asked by Murray

Attorney Cleon B. Murray issued the following statement today on the local pension bills:

The Mayor, on March 14, issued a newspaper statement concerning his self-sponsored pension bills.

In view of this statement and his previous efforts on behalf of these bills, the following may be pertinent:

If the Mayor is so concerned about "Old John Taxpayer" as he calls him, why does he expect the taxpayers of the City of Kingston to pay the sum of $2,500.00 to cover his prior service in order that he may enter the State Retirement System, and especially in view of the fact that his present term has less than two years to run? The county employees who joined made their own contributions. Is this justice to Mr. "Old John Taxpayer"?

In view of the fact that the Mayor states that the Police Pension Fund is not sound, why did he not consent to hold up his bills until an actuarial survey was made so that justice could be done to the police and to the taxpayers of the city? The police offered to have an actuarial survey made without expense to the taxpayers of this city, and to abide by the figures shown by that survey.

Why did the Mayor insist that these bills must be passed so that the police and firemen might be forced into the State Retirement System, which the local police and fire departments have refused to enter for the reason that it was never contemplated to cover the hazardous occupation of a policeman and a fireman? Is it because he wants the $82,000.00 at present in these funds to make the set-up look better under the law which the Mayor had passed putting city employees in the State Retirement System, and thus add to the budget of the taxpayers eight per cent of all the years' salaries for prior service of said city employees, plus a four per cent addition in the future.

Where does the mayor get his authority for the statement that the accrued liability of the pension funds amounts to $130,000.00, and if that is true, where does he get his authority to wipe out the present benefits of the policemen and firemen and make their contributions eight per cent of their salaries?

The policemen have offered to make any reasonable change in the present pension law and to abide by the figures which an accurate survey would show. Why does the Mayor not agree to this?

The new constitution does not require any change in the local pension system. Any taxpayer, by reading this section of the constitution, can understand that. This is an excuse for adding to the burden of the taxpayers and the policemen. These pensions were promised in the charter when the positions were accepted.

Why are policemen in other cities offered an opportunity to adjust their pension systems and to have a voice in what will be done with their pension systems?

The city has never put $6,000.00 per year, (the amount the Mayor states) in the Police Pension Fund, and never has directly put a dollar in the Police Pension Fund from the taxpayers. Any contribution the city made has come from dog license fees and other fees, (approximately $3,600.00 a year), and it is to be noted that the dog license fee matter was taken care of by the police department, now replaced by a dog warden.

Why is not the cost of the taxpayers of the City of Kingston and the other city employees in the State Retirement System revealed? Simple arithmetic would do it, by taking each man's amount of prior service and his salary. Is it true that this will cost the taxpayers in excess of $100,000.00?

An actuarial survey made in 1933 shows that the police pension system can be administered for six per cent of the payroll, and since that was made, with some $30,000.00 in the pension fund, that is, in seven years, the reserves have been increased to $52,000.00.

Finally, why should it cost the city and policemen together an increase of nearly $8,000.00 per year, taking the figures of 1939, and both the firemen and the city an increase of $9,000.00, a total of $17,000.00, and in any event, why should it cost the taxpayers of the City of Kingston an increase of approximately $9,000.00 per year?

Property is Promised

Nanking, March 18 (AP)—The Japanese army, setting the stage for creation of its much-discussed new Chinese puppet regime, today promised to return confiscated Chinese property to all who vow allegiance to the Japanese-supported central government. A proclamation by Lieut.-Gen. Susumu Fujita, commander of the Shanghai area, declared the army would gradually surrender Chinese property to Wang Ching-Wei, dissident former premier of China who is slated to head the new government. Wang is in Nanking for a meeting of his "orthodox" Kuomintang government party opposed to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek—in a three day session starting tomorrow.

School Voice Class Gives Demonstration

The second year voice training class of the Kingston High School, under the direction of Leonard H. Stine, gave a demonstration at the Washington Square College of New York University on Saturday before a group of music supervisors and graduate students.

The demonstration consisted of a review of the methods used by Mr. Stine in his voice training class in the first and second year courses and a short recital of solos by some of the members of the class, showing the results of voice training in class groups.

Voice training classes are one of the new trends in public school music and the classes in Kingston High School have proven so successful under Mr. Stine that he was asked to give the demonstration before other music supervisors who have not developed the classes in their schools.

TWIN BROTHERS BRIDE'S PROBLEM, SHE SEEKS EMILY POST'S ADVICE

Being Led to Altar by Two Men Not Conventional But Personal Feelings May Be Considered

I so often write "my province is convention, not invention," but I am at this moment tempted to prove that there are exceptions to the rule. I have never heard of the following wedding situation, and doubt very much if writing about it in this column will help very many of you. But since I think it appealing, perhaps some of you may think so too. The letter is from a bride whose father is dead and her only brothers are identical twins. Even she at times mistakes one for the other and she loves both equally. Her question: "How can I ever choose one before the other? Do you think it would be impossible to walk up the aisle between them? After all, I have walked between them almost everywhere my whole life long. And this is what we would all like—if we only knew just how to manage the giving away."

In answer, I must say that the idea of a bride's being led to the altar between two men is certainly NOT according to rule. And yet the fact that they are thought of together by everyone, may seem to your friends a sufficient excuse to break the usual rule. In other words, if you prefer sentiment to correctness, and you won't mind the criticism of however many may criticize, then the only problem is to work out a few mechanical details. Since both together cannot give you hand to the clergyman, the older will walk on your left and give you away according to convention. The question is how inconspicuously can you add the one on your right. In order to take the arm of each you might wear a corsage instead of carrying a bouquet. As you near the chancel the brother on your right would have to stand aside so as not to run into the groom. He might take his place in a pew on the groom's side. Or he might walk around your train. Join his brother and stand beside him as he gives you away, and then go with him into the first pew. You will have to try this out at rehearsal to see how this second maneuver looks.

A Young Boy's Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: What shall my son, aged nine, wear as a guest at a neighborhood child's dancing-school party? His present "best" suit is tan and he wears brown oxfords with this.

Answer: As a rule boys wear blue suits but there is no rule, at so young an age, that they have to. Unless you are going to buy him some new clothes anyway, I would let him wear what he has.

Eating Food from Skewers

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell us how food should be eaten when served hot on little skewers. Answer: If you are sitting at a table, you hold the end of the skewer in your left hand and stab the piece nearest to the end with the fork prongs, and slide it off. At picnics, the only thing to do is to push the pieces one by one up to the point of the skewer with a bit of crust or cracker and then bite them off.

Mystery Plant Builds Motors

Windowless Factory Turning Out Secret Airplane Engines.

INDIANAPOLIS.—In the suburb of Speedway City where the 500 mile automobile racing classic is staged every May 30, a new windowless factory of modern design has been built.

It has taken the place of the Indianapolis motor speedway as the suburb's principal industry, but most people here know little about the factory.

It is the Allison Engineering company's new $6,000,000 plant, in which the production of new airplane engines of secret design got under way last month. The building is surrounded by an electrically charged fence, it is constantly flood-lighted at night, and there are three picket lines of armed guards at all entrances.

Armed Guides Escort Visitors.
Any visitor, regardless of rank or station, must be escorted by an armed guide—provided he is fortunate enough to obtain permission to enter the plant. The building itself is divided into steel walled units, and only a few of the employees are allowed to enter sections of the building other than those in which they work.

In this mysterious plant $18,000,000 worth of liquid cooled airplane motors will be built for the United States army and navy. Work on them has begun. The motors, believed to be of 2,000 horse power and of revolutionary design, are thought to be the world's fastest. Rumors state that the difficulty is to build a plane capable of standing up under the terrific drive of the Allison series type motor.

The engines will be used in such planes as the army's flying fortresses and the XP-39 pursuit interceptors manufactured by Bell Aircraft corporation.

The expansion of military orders was the principal reason for construction of the new plant here, which is located on a 53-acre tract.

The factory has its own well water system with a standby refrigerating unit, its own Diesel power plant, and what is said to be one of the finest machine tool systems in the world.

Free From Power Failure.
Residents consider it significant that no external power failure could halt work in the plant. The building even contains a cafeteria and hospital. Special air locks prevent outside air, or any kind of gas, from entering the building at any point.

Brick, steel, concrete, and glass bricks are used in construction throughout. Where the glass bricks are used for external decorative purposes, they are backed with steel and masonry. The floor is of six-inch concrete.

Fuel and materials are brought into the factory enclosure on a special railway spur, and the fuel is stored underground. The entire building is air conditioned for both heating and cooling purposes. The test room is soundproofed.

Employees are carefully investigated and catalogued, and warned that they are entrusted with secrets of national importance. Every man is investigated by the government operatives before being hired, after he has first proved his mechanical ability.

All workers carry metal identification tags or credentials proving their right to be in the plant. The waiting list of those who want to work at the plant numbers 25,000. How many are now at work is not known.

Rescue Just in Time:

Man in Well 24 Hours

WINCHESTER, ENGLAND.—Edward Passey owes his life to the urge of another man to have a look at his old home.

Passey was walking in the darkness, up the path of a lonely disused house some miles from his home, when the ground suddenly gave way beneath him and he fell 50 feet into the mud and water of an old well shaft.

For 24 hours he called for help, but no one heard. And no one would have heard but for the fact the previous tenant had an urge to see the place, and was just in time to save Passey's life.

Cells Are Work Rooms

For British War Staff

LONDON.—Scores of members of the war office staff have gone to prison. There's been no scandal attached to the move, but it's a fact just the same.

All regular inmates of one of Britain's most famous old prisons were evacuated soon after war was declared, and their cells now are being occupied by officers, using the cells as offices.

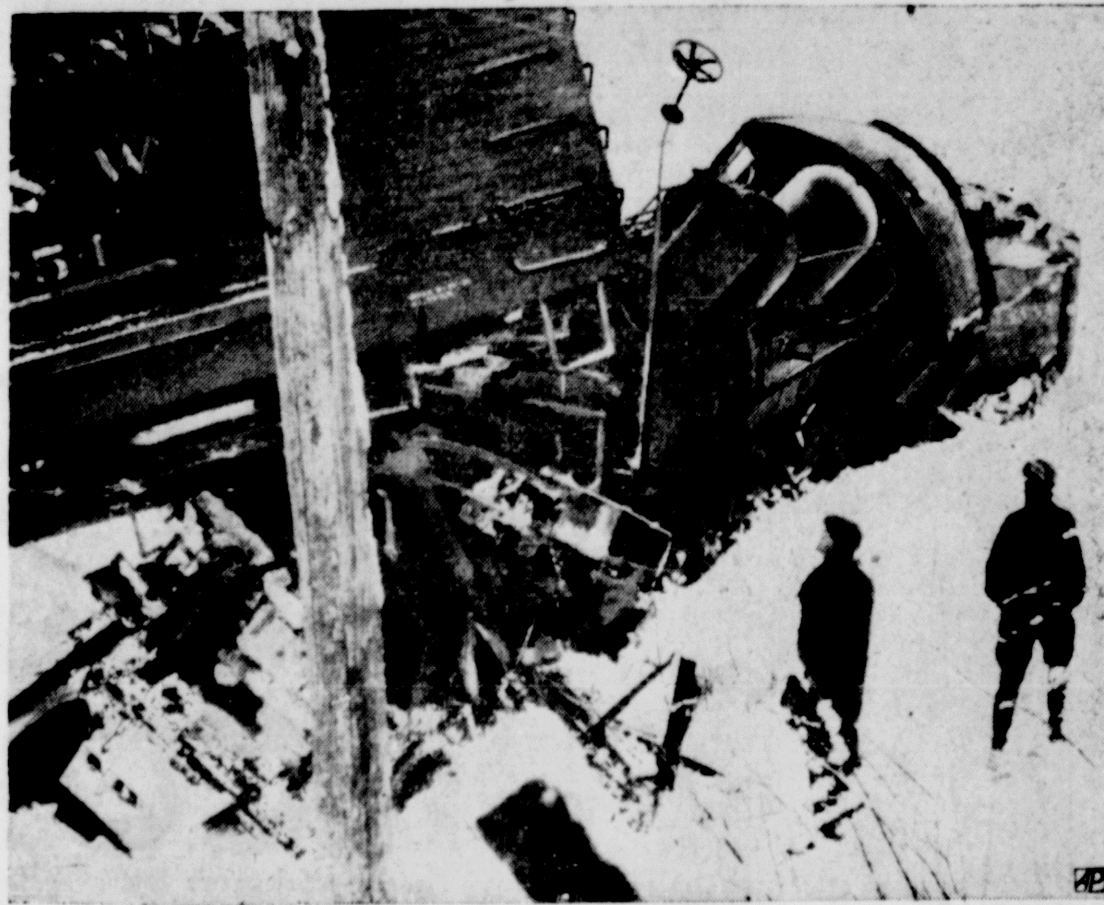

Cells which had been used for old and infirm prisoners are most eagerly sought, for they are well equipped with modern heating apparatus.

New York, March 19 (AP)—A 55-year-old former state senator, Ellwood M. Rabenold, was convicted early today of accepting almost $100,000 to countenance bank loans lacking proper collateral while he served as chairman of the board of the Clinton Trust Company of New York.

Science Balances Value of Milk

"Milk is now produced to give a creamier-tasting, more delicious drink," said Leonard Meyer, manager of the Dairymen's League, today in discussing the efforts of scientists to get all the benefits out of naturally balanced foods.

Referring to the product of his concern, Dairylea Homogenized Vitamin D Milk, Mr. Meyer said: "You'll find a drop of milk from the bottom of the bottle is just as rich in cream as one taken from the top, for in homogenization, tiny particles of cream have been equally blended through the bottle."

Mr. Meyer went further to say that "in every quart there is added 400 full units of Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that helps build sturdy bones—and the milk is protected constantly every step of the way from the farm to the consumer's table."

Skill in Auto Driving Is Result of Practice

In the United States, each year sees nearly 1,000,000 brand new motorists take the wheel and begin the process of acquiring skill in driving. Driving is one of the things that can best be learned by doing. To many it comes quite naturally; to others it does not.

There is reason to believe that the beginner who is of a mechanical turn of mind has advantages over the beginner who, lacking mechanical interest, is forced to learn his driving technique entirely by rule. This is because the mechanical-minded driver understands the reasons for each move, comes to see, subconsciously, the mechanical processes set in motion by his hand or foot, and thinks of his driving in terms of what is happening under the hood.

But anyone who will take the trouble to ground himself in certain fundamentals about his car is likely to develop into a safe and skillful operator, whether he happens to be mechanical-minded or not.

With modern automobiles, the driver's control over his car is just as complete in bad weather as at any other time. But it frequently requires greater skill to exercise this control, and for this reason, the new driver should be extra cautious during the season when rain and hazy weather complicate the task of driving.

There is no better safety advice than the rule that is now almost axiomatic: Always drive in such a manner that you can stop in the clear space ahead. Many a motorist has thought he was obeying this rule, only to find that the stopping distance on wet pavement, or in slippery leaves, was something quite different from the stopping distance on hard dry pavement.

New Style Heating Plant Operates by 'Direct Ray'

A new type heating system now in the process of development may make possible comfortable winter living in house temperatures ranging down to 50 degrees, according to Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale university.

Dr. Winslow terms the new system "the pleasantest and perhaps the most economical form of winter heating for residences."

He explained that the new method depends on rays which cause warmth when they strike the human body, thus differing from the usual method which depends primarily on warming the air.

Most of the efficiency loss in current heating systems is derived from the fact that a large percentage of the heat energy produced goes to warm the air rather than the human body.

In the new system, the air temperature can be as low as 50 degrees with perfect comfort to dwellers, because the heat that is generated radiates directly to the human body.

Speaking of "the air-cooled human body," Dr. Winslow emphasized that the general objective of air-conditioning "is to maintain a desirable rate of heat loss from the surface of the human body."

"What we desire," he said, "is atmospheric conditions which produce an active sense of physical well-being such as is experienced on the mountain top or sea beach."

Although not commercially available as yet, three radiant heating systems are now operating successfully in and near New Haven and the British have made extensive use of the method, he said.

Eskimo Reindeer Herders

Canada's Eskimos are making good as reindeer herders, says the department of mines and resources, Ottawa. A roundup shows that a herd placed under native management in December, 1938, has increased about 350 fawns and now totals approximately 1,200 head. Since its transfer to the Anderson river area, about 150 miles east of the government reindeer station, the native herd has been managed by Eskimo herders, under the supervision of the chief government herder. Establishment of this native herd is another step in Canada's plan to establish reindeer ranching among the Eskimos as a means of assisting the natives by providing a staple supply of food and clothing. The herd is reported to be in excellent condition and the natives in- trusted with its management are taking a keen interest in the enterprise. Thus Canada's experiment in converting the Eskimos from hunters to herders appears to be making favorable progress.

English Railroad Hazards

Fog, that thick pea soup kind for which England is noted, interferes so much with the operation of railways that special means have to be taken to cope with it. Fog signal men are placed at important points. They live near their work and on their own initiative go to their posts when fog descends. Or they may be called from signal boxes. They use 300,000 detonators, or "torpedoes," as they are known in America. The noisemakers tell the engineers the position of the signal hidden from view by the fog. As an additional safeguard one railroad has its own system of automatic train control. If the line is clear a bell rings by the engineer's side. If not, a siren blows and brakes are automatically applied. The device is operated by signal men through an electric ramp at each caution signal on 2,855 miles of track and 3,250 engines.

Discussing minerals, Professor L. A. Maynard of Cornell said studies show that both man and animals require the same minerals in their food, and that of the many minerals in the body, at least 13 are essential for the body's growth and health.

Hess Is Expected To Get Pension

It is expected that the police board at its monthly meeting Thursday evening at the city hall will retire Policeman William Hess on a pension. Officer Hess this year completed 27 years of active and efficient service on the Kingston police force.

It is understood that Officer Hess is planning to retire on account of physical disability.

Officer Hess and Officer William J. Reardon became active members of the police department on February 1, 1913, and are the two oldest patrolmen in years of service on the force.

Officer Hess before he became a member of the police department was a conductor on the local trolley road. During the more than quarter century that he has served the city as a policeman he has become widely known.

In February, 1938, Officers Hess and Reardon were presented with 25-year medals by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association at a joint meeting of the Police and Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel where the two men received gold signet rings at impressive ceremonies.

"BRITISH KNOCKABOUT" MODEL

In England, there is a model called the English Town and Country Coat. It is popular because it is one of the most comfortable and nonchalant coats a man can wear—and is appropriate for any occasion.

You can buy this same model right here in our store . . . . the British Knockabout. It has the same full-set shoulders that are meant to drape easily over the modern broad-shouldered suit. The same flared skirt, slash pockets and comfortable "hang" as the original British model.

But it does not have the high price tag! Which is why we can't remain nonchalant!

Gritty Paint as Camouflage

Camouflage experts in England are employing various paints for use on structures where light reflection should be diminished. Gritty oil paint—usually applied to horizontal surfaces and roofs—assists materially in disguising the contours of a building. There is also a gritty oil-bound water paint for use on asbestos and asphalt where permanence is desirable, and also a non-gritty flat paint for application to walls and other vertical surfaces. These paints are important where artificial and conspicuous figures are to be painted on a horizontal surface, as for example, when a large factory is camouflaged to look like a row of cottages or even a private dwelling. Sometimes the illusion of a road passing over the roofs of buildings is created, and roads are even painted across a landscape for the purpose of making them out through these roofs.

Boxer - Puncher Is Needed To Beat Champion Joe Louis

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

There was a time when most boxing men believed that it would take a smashing puncher to dethrone Joe Louis. But after they had seen him get off the floor to knock out Tony Galento, after they had seen him take the best of three fights with Jack Roper and others and then come on to score quick kyo triumphs, some of them changed their minds and decided that perhaps it would take a classy boxer to defeat Louis.

But when they recalled what Louis had done to such fancy boxers as Bob Pastor and John Henry Lewis, they again changed their minds, many of them leaning to the opinion that it would take a combination boxer and puncher to knock Louis off his throne. And this time they may be right.

Louis' next defense of the title is against a combination boxer-puncher. He meets Johnny Paycheck of Chicago in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden a week from Friday night.

Has Best Left

Paycheck is a smart and shifty boxer with a highly developed left hand. Midwest boxing experts who have seen him in most of his fights claim he has the best left hand in the business, better even than that possessed by Billy Conn, which is generally considered "tops" by fight observers.

But while Paycheck's boxing ability has helped him build his reputation, it is his hitting prowess which has enabled him to compile the record which now brings him a titular opponent.

For Paycheck has halted 23 of his last 33 opponents and even most of those who managed to survive the distance with him found themselves on the floor some time during the proceedings. He has a short, straight right-hand wallop which is particularly effective but in many cases it has been his left hook which brought disaster to his foes.

Paycheck is training at Dr. Bier's camp in Pompton Lakes, N. J., for his meeting with Louis—the same camp in which Louis himself trained for all but one of his previous fights in the east.

Mrs. Page Has 7 Stroke Golf Lead

Southern Pines, N. C., March 19 (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, chubby Chapel Hill housewife, entered the second 18-hole round of the Mid-South Women's golf tournament today with a seven stroke lead over Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., the 1936 Mid-South champion.

Mrs. Page, a former National champion, yesterday scored 36-40-76. Miss Verry had 43-40-83. Finishing first, just one stroke above par, was Mrs. Tomrudel of New York, with 43-41-84. Three players were tied with 85's, Mrs. George Corcoran of Thomsville, Mrs. J. J. Lawlor of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Helen Waring of Pinehurst.

Another 18 holes tomorrow will complete the tournament.

Canfield Swamps Quick by 100-58

John Canfield bested Harold Quick in their match at the Kasch academy last night in a very convincing manner. The final score was 100 to 58 with Canfield always out in front by a comfortable margin, and having a tough scratch on his 38th putt rob him of a possible new high record for the tournament. Quick ran 15 for his best.

Tonight John Naccarato and Tony Pino will play.

1st Hole-In-One

Ogallala, Neb., March 19 (AP)—You might call Goller Wil Beibes a pioneer. He blazed the way with the first hole-in-one of the season on the new Ogallala golf course. He used a seven iron on the 116-yard third hole.

Will Try For Record

Los Angeles, March 19 (AP)—Striking along three miles above the earth, Jacqueline Cochran, American aviatrix, hopes tomorrow to better the world's 2,000 kilometer air speed record of 311 miles an hour. Weather permitting, she plans to fly a single-engine, oxygen-equipped monoplane once in each direction over a 1,000 kilometer route extending from Mt. Wilson Observatory, just east of here, to a pylon located 30 miles west of Albuquerque, N. M. The present record for 2,000 kilometers was established last July by two German army fliers in a twin-engine Junkers bomber.

New York, March 19 (AP)—Fred Offenhausser of Los Angeles who designed the cars that won the 1935-36-37-38 Indianapolis races, will have no fewer than 14 starters in this year's event. . . . Connie Mack has turned down three offers—one a $25,000 bid from the Giants—for Eric Tipton, ex-Duke football star, now being schooled at Toronto. . . . Sammy Sneed now can claim the dubious distinction of starting and finishing tournaments with eights. In the recent Thomasville (Ga.) Open, Sam took a "crucial" on the first hole of the meet. . . . Columbus wants the 1942 American Bowling Congress meet and stands a good chance. Atlantic City also is in the running.

Today's Guest Star

Ken Smith, N. Y. Daily Mirror: "An international situation developed in the all-star game when four Italians—Joe DiMaggio, Crosetti, Lavagetto and Cuccinello—rushed to the aid of Finland."

Houston is getting ready to name a street after Jimmy Demaret. . . . Harry Jeffra, former bantamweight king, has a bouncing seven pound son. . . . Only about half of the 91 Detroit farm hands Judge Landis set free have been able to get jobs. . . . The Oklahoma A. and M. cagers will be back east next season to meet City College in the Garden opener. . . . Wes Fry, newest addition to the Northwestern coaching staff, starts work right after the spring holidays. He'll devote most of his time to the backfield candidates. . . . The Reds will be the darlings of the railroads this summer since the schedule allots them more mileage than any other N. L. club.

Jones on the Sidelines?

A well informed source says it is more than a possibility that Bobby Jones will attend the Augusta Masters' tournament as a spectator only. . . . He took a few practice shots at Augusta the other day, then told friends, "I'll just have to let time take its course with this."

The Giants are reported flirting with Coral Gables, Fla., for next year's training camp. . . . Footballer Ken Strong's seven-year-old son is seriously ill—ruptured appendix. . . . Sammy Angott and Davey Day have signed to fight in Louisville Derby Eve. . . . Western Kentucky State, one of the four teams invited to the N. C. A. A. cake play-off in Indianapolis next week, have won 54 of their last 56 tournament games and the Kentucky Conference title nine years in a row. . . . Have the Giants joined in the bidding for Joe Medwick? Sounds reasonable for outfield trouble is something Bill McKenchie has plenty of.

The Perfect Player

Clark Shaughnessy, who is making friends right and left on the coast, always was held up as the perfect football player by the late Dr. Henry L. Williams, originator of the famous Minnesota shift. . . . When someone did something wrong, Williams would say, "why can't you do it like Shaughnessy did?"

The Dodgers have imported half a dozen Puerto Ricans for distribution among their farms. . . . Official announcement is being delayed since Scout Ted McGrew who signed them can neither spell nor pronounce their names.

Red Sanders Gets Vanderbilt Job

Nashville, Tenn., March 19 (AP)—Henry Russell (Red) Sanders, who played quarterback at Vanderbilt University 15 years ago, is coming back as head football coach.

The 35-year-old backfield coach at Louisiana State University was chosen yesterday to succeed Ray Morrison, who resigned as Vanderbilt's head coach to accept a similar position at Temple University, Philadelphia.

It was understood that Sanders was given a three-year contract at $6,500 a year.

Even Rookies Can Get Some Sleep In Today's Orderly Spring Camps

This is the last in a series of stories by Dillon Graham painting a picture of baseball spring training camps. In this story Graham contrasts camps of today with those of the old era.

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor (AP) Feature Service
Tampa—Baseball players on spring training trips no longer have to worry about finding snakes or turtles or baby alligators in their beds at night.

In the old days practical jokers ran riot and the hazing of rookies was a constant sport. But not now. Players come too high. And owners frown on any horseplay that might endanger their valuable talent.

There's another reason, too. A quarter of a century ago baseball had many "rowdies." Today most players are college men. They don't get quite the fun out of those old tricks and the smart young rookies won't fall for the jokes that trapped the dumb country rubes.

Rookies now are received in friendly fashion. Veterans often go out of their way to give pointers to youngsters who some day may take their jobs. Years ago the regulars resented the newcomers. They made a rookie's life miserable. A youngster then literally had to fight his way into the lineup.

Nothing But the Best
At one time many hotels refused to cater to the rough hewers who made up the personnel of the teams. But now the clubs stop at the best hotels.

Some years ago John Ringling, the circus owner, persuaded his friend, John McGraw, to bring the Giants to Sarasota for spring training. McGraw agreed and asked Ringling to take care of reservations.

The players rolled south in Pullmans to Sarasota and hopped into buses expecting to be transported to a handsome resort hotel. When the cars pulled up in front of a seedy, wooden establishment the players squealed like stuck pigs.

McGraw went to Ringling and protested.

"That's where my circus men stop and if it's good enough for them it's good enough for your ball players," Ringling answered.

Big Business Now

But baseball is a bigger business now. The players are higher-type men, they cost more and are paid larger salaries. And the clubs

The first couple of weeks of spring training are spent in conditioning activities. Then come the exhibition games. It requires only a week or two for the managers to decide that some of their rookies aren't ready. Others are kept all spring and played in the exhibitions. A few make the grade and stick in the majors.

Except for the occasional efforts of some sore-armed star to make a comeback, the most interesting features of the spring drills are the battles between the rookies trying to win a big league job and the leg-weary veterans striving to hold them off for another year or two.

Lloyd Mangum, Ditch Metz, Ed Oliver and others who consistently hit home at or near the top this winter.

Another 18-hole round tomorrow will follow the opening salvo. Then the field will be reduced for Thursday's 36-hole final.

Bozeman tries for second place

Chicago, March 19 (AP)—Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Calif., will be shooting for second place when he meets Joe Chamaco of Mexico City in the feature match of tonight's session of the world's three cushion billiards tournament.

A victory over Chamaco would put him in second place behind pace-setter Willie Hoppe, the New York veteran, and drop Chamaco into a third place tie with Allen Hall of Chicago and Walker Cochran of San Francisco, both idle today. Hoppe also is unscheduled.

Hoppe maintained his perfect record last night, winning his sixth straight game, a 50 to 32 decision in 57 innings over Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo. Hoppe has not lost a game.

Chamaco jumped into second place with one loss in five games when he defeated Otto Reisel of Philadelphia, 50 to 28, in 46 innings. Hall lost a chance to retain that spot when he bowed to Defending Champion Cochran, 50 to 38, in 50 innings.

Bozeman kept pace with Cochran with a hotly-contested, 50 to 49, victory over Jake Schaefer of Cleveland, in 66 innings. In the fifth game of the day Art Thurnblad of Kenosha, Wis., defeated Arthur Rubin of New York, 50 to 46, in 58 innings.

Nothing But the Best
At one time many hotels refused to cater to the rough hewers who made up the personnel of the teams. But now the clubs stop at the best hotels.

Some years ago John Ringling, the circus owner, persuaded his friend, John McGraw, to bring the Giants to Sarasota for spring training. McGraw agreed and asked Ringling to take care of reservations.

The players rolled south in Pullmans to Sarasota and hopped into buses expecting to be transported to a handsome resort hotel. When the cars pulled up in front of a seedy, wooden establishment the players squealed like stuck pigs.

McGraw went to Ringling and protested.

"That's where my circus men stop and if it's good enough for them it's good enough for your ball players," Ringling answered.

Big Business Now

But baseball is a bigger business now. The players are higher-type men, they cost more and are paid larger salaries. And the clubs

The first couple of weeks of spring training are spent in conditioning activities. Then come the exhibition games. It requires only a week or two for the managers to decide that some of their rookies aren't ready. Others are kept all spring and played in the exhibitions. A few make the grade and stick in the majors.

Except for the occasional efforts of some sore-armed star to make a comeback, the most interesting features of the spring drills are the battles between the rookies trying to win a big league job and the leg-weary veterans striving to hold them off for another year or two.

Lloyd Mangum, Ditch Metz, Ed Oliver and others who consistently hit home at or near the top this winter.

Another 18-hole round tomorrow will follow the opening salvo. Then the field will be reduced for Thursday's 36-hole final.

Bozeman tries for second place

Chicago, March 19 (AP)—Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Calif., will be shooting for second place when he meets Joe Chamaco of Mexico City in the feature match of tonight's session of the world's three cushion billiards tournament.

A victory over Chamaco would put him in second place behind pace-setter Willie Hoppe, the New York veteran, and drop Chamaco into a third place tie with Allen Hall of Chicago and Walker Cochran of San Francisco, both idle today. Hoppe also is unscheduled.

Hoppe maintained his perfect record last night, winning his sixth straight game, a 50 to 32 decision in 57 innings over Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo. Hoppe has not lost a game.

Chamaco jumped into second place with one loss in five games when he defeated Otto Reisel of Philadelphia, 50 to 28, in 46 innings. Hall lost a chance to retain that spot when he bowed to Defending Champion Cochran, 50 to 38, in 50 innings.

Bozeman kept pace with Cochran with a hotly-contested, 50 to 49, victory over Jake Schaefer of Cleveland, in 66 innings. In the fifth game of the day Art Thurnblad of Kenosha, Wis., defeated Arthur Rubin of New York, 50 to 46, in 58 innings.

Bozeman kept pace with Cochran with a hotly-contested, 50 to 49, victory over Jake Schaefer of Cleveland, in 66 innings. In the fifth game of the day Art Thurnblad of Kenosha, Wis., defeated Arthur Rubin of New York, 50 to 46, in 58 innings.

Reunion Is Held

The 14th annual reunion of Camp Greenkill, DeWitt Lake, was held Sunday afternoon at Woodstock Hotel, New York, and was attended by more than 300 persons from New York, Brooklyn and New Jersey. Among those present were Rudolph Oehri of DeWitt Lake and Willett Burnett, owner of DeWitt Lake, who spoke briefly and stated that Kingston and vicinity is becoming widely known as camp and summer resort and winter vacation land, and that township of Rosendale Association had helped in promoting activities throughout the township. Many summer events have already been planned, among them being a get-together of four camps, at which children of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths will assemble to hear an address on Americanism, as was enjoyed last season, at DeWitt Lake pavilion.

Recreation Room Decoration

Ideas for the decoration of the basement recreation room are always welcome. One of the best has the double advantage of being inexpensive and effective as well. The walls of the room on three sides are decorated to look like a garden. Hollyhocks, delphiniums, snap dragons and other midsummer flowers are painted against a light cerulean blue background. Their gay colors brighten the room and establish an informal atmosphere. Close to the walls a low picket fence is set, and artificial trailing vines and a few potted plants used to break the continuous white lines. The fourth wall is clappedboard and decorated with built-in bookcases, a dropleaf side table, and a running upholstered bench. The floor is linoleum covered in a flagstone pattern centered with a large grass green rug. Chairs and tables are green and white painted wood of typical and comfortable garden variety.

Horse Still Is Factor in War

Western Plains of United States Sends Steeds To Battle Front.

WASHINGTON.—Shipment of more than a thousand horses from the western plains of the United States to Europe's battle front indicates that even in this day of "blitzkrieg" the horse still holds an important place in war planning.

"During the World War more than 950,000 horses and 345,000 mules were shipped from the United States to Europe for military use," says the National Geographic society.

Old Ratio Continues.

"In the Civil War the federal forces alone required 500 horses a day. The ratio of horses and mules, to the number of men, was practically the same in the last World War as it was in the Civil War and in the Boer War. In the latter war the British turned to the United States for horses and mules.

"Most American horses are descendants of animals imported from Spain by Cortez in his conquest of Mexico, and by De Soto who brought horses to Florida. The latter were released in Texas after the march to the Mississippi river and, with those coming up from Mexico, were the early progenitors of the wild mustang that ranged the western plains.

"These wild horses changed the life of the American Indians who had previously traveled on foot and set up their villages near available game supplies. They became a more mobile fighting force. The horses also enabled the Indians to extend their hunting ground in pursuing the buffalo.

"With the exception of this Spanish stock, nearly all the horses brought into the colonies before 1776 came from the British Isles. England, as well as other countries in which Caesar campaigned, was noted for the breeding of heavy draft horses. The importation of English race horses into the colonies began about 1750.

Traced to Virginia.

"The ancestry of many of the better breeds of horses in Tennessee, Kentucky and other southern states can be traced back to Virginia.

"The number of horses on farms has decreased steadily since 1913. There were 17,589,000 horses on farms on January 1, 1925. Now there are only about 11,000,000. The decrease is attributed to increased motor competition, declining prices and inroads of disease in some sections.

"City statistics show an even greater decline. From the high point in 1910, when there were close to 3,500,000 city horses and mules, the total fell to about 2,100,000 in 1930, and the major portion of these have since disappeared."

1930, and the major portion of these have since disappeared."

British Flying Officer

Has Two Artificial Legs

LONDON.—Douglas R. S. Bader has two artificial legs, and yet is a first-class pilot of the R. A. F. somewhere in England, with the title of flying officer.

Bader joined the R. A. F. eight years ago and was one of England's most promising pilots, then one day he crashed and lost both legs. He had two artificial legs fitted and found that he could fly as well as ever with them. So he applied to the air ministry to rejoin the R. A. F., but as it was peacetime, he was rejected.

But Bader was not the type that gives up easily, so went on flying on his own in all kinds of machines, and when the war broke out, was accepted once again by the air ministry.

First New American Bird

In 21 Years Discovered

WASHINGTON.—Discovery of the first new species of bird in the continental United States in 21 years was reported today by the Smithsonian institution.

The woodland songster, member of the family of warblers, was given the scientific name of Dendroica Potomac, or Sutton's Warbler. The first bird was seen in the "Panhandle" district of West Virginia by Karl W. Haller, ornithologist of Bethany college.

Scientists say the bird may be a new creation, the rarely observed phenomenon in nature of a fertile cross between two species.

Well-Dressed Students

Conceded Edge in Exams

BOSTON.—A well-dressed college student is likely to get better marks in examinations than the traditional sloppy student, L. Harold DeWolf, psychology professor at Boston university, believes.

In outlining methods for preparing for an examination, DeWolf said that the neat clothing gives confidence and a disheveled appearance makes the student feel insecure.

Another suggestion made by DeWolf is that during each day of study the student should stop work and enjoy some active recreation like skating or skiing.

He Collects Superstitions

NORMAN, OKLA.—Although this is a scientific age, Dr. Benjamin Cartwright, education professor of the University of Oklahoma, has a collection of 10,000 superstitions.

An extension of civil service to the rural counties of the state is expected within the next few years as a result of a recent decision of the New York state court of appeals in interpreting a provision which has been in the New York state constitution since 1894.
